

IT looks like an open season for brilliant women—from the display of shining metallic frocks now seen on the Second and Fourth floors.

Broadway

Saks & Company

at 34th Street

A QUESTION when it's a coat and when a suit, now that both have taken to long draped skirts and bloused tops that fit tightly at the hips. See Fourth Floor.

Smart, Indeed, Are These Silk Frocks for Misses

in two distinctive models
at 35.00

Satin Crepe fashions itself into a most engaging model that bears out the newest prophecies of the mode—a draped blouse caught with jeweled buckles; a collar of rich lace à la Bertha effect, and shirred panels that sweep about gaily.

Canton Crepe is responsible for the other—and quite Parisian it is in its sophistication. Pleated panels and unusual pleated sleeves are edged with silver fur—and that's quite all it needs to be a success. Black, navy, brown, cocoa. In sizes 14 to 20 years. Second Floor

Charming Silk Negligees of matelasse crepe back satin

present unusual value
at 29.75

They are comfortably luxurious, with wide sleeves and long shawl collars fastening in front with one large button. Of soft crepe back satin, covered with a graceful leaf design—and beautifully made throughout the entire garment.

They come in all those fascinating shades that serve to make leisure hours truly relaxing. Third Floor

Things Decidedly New

—That are happening to our Fall Sweaters

The New Neckline

It dips again in the front—in this case to an abbreviated "v." But most important of all in this sweater, are the figured panels, front and back. These are of red-and-blue wool mixture, the rest of the sweater plain blue.

12.75

Sweaters this Fall have so many changes of neck, waist-line and decoration that it amounts to a revolution!

The New Waistline

This sweater hasn't a sign of a belt, but—after the manner of the fashionable French blouse—a hip-band. The becoming new surplice collar and hip-band are of Copenhagen-and-black mixture, the rest of the sweater plain color.

12.75

Where there's a sweater these days, there's usually a mixture—of two or more colors.

The New Patterns

Making its first Fall appearance comes a new perpendicular stripe which appears on a brushed wool Tuxedo model. It carries out the much-demanded two-toned effect. In tan and brown, or other combinations.

English Jumper Style

Even when they have one, as does this brushed-wool sweater, most women prefer to wear their sweaters minus its belt. A red-and-brown wool mixture, with plaid effect at the bottom. Also in other shades.

Ultra-Smart, Paris-Inspired Suits for Madame

—MADE OF THE SEASON'S FAVORED FABRICS—

At Very Moderate Prices

Two Piece Suits for Madame

75.00

An overblouse is all one needs to turn these good-looking suits into a costume affair—and yet the model is so engagingly simple, that tailored blouses will feel equally at home with it.

Its versatile qualities are due to Marleen cloth, which fashions it—straight of line, with attractive pockets that turn into panels. Of course, the crowning touch is the rich collar of squirrel or beaver that top it. In navy, Malay, Hawaiian and Tunisian.

Two Piece Suits for Madame

Luxuria, that new, soft fabric, has been used to excellent advantage in these stunning suits—lined with silk crepe to match and adorned with rich embroidery in self color.

The coat of cloth possesses youthful jauntiness in those new box lines so favored by Paris. The convertible collar buttons high to the neck or fits smoothly over the shoulder.

Faultlessly tailored in every detail, and with expert finish throughout, these suits follow the line of serviceability as well as smartness. In navy, Malay and kit fox shades.

Smart New Cloth Frocks for Women

—in the charming coat models that Paris favors, or in dressier styles that are equally effective—

Monday at 45.00

The vogue for things Egyptian lends a bit of its glamour (by means of embroidery) to these good-looking cloth frocks—bestowing on them a touch of brightness and quaint charm that is altogether appealing. Or if one prefers, the embroidery may be done in the tones of the frock—in either case, the result is very charming.

The new long "Jenny" sleeve, the youthful peasant apron effect, slenderly simple lines, and pockets that unexpectedly turn into panels are some of the methods by which these frocks attain the mode—of Poiret twill in navy, black, and brown. Sizes 36 to 44.

$125.

A collection of coats suitable for Fall and Winter wear—developed in fashion, Metalist, Osiris, Panvelaine and many other velvety fabrics. Styles include semi-wrap or cleverly draped effects, new, joyous circular capes, and simple models collared with fur. Lined with silk or crepe.

At 98.50

Coats that express the very newest ideas in fabric, styling and trimming. Lustrosa, gerona, panvelaine, Alonzo develop them—while beautiful collars (some have cuffs as well) of gray and rock squirrel, beaver, Australian opossum, black caracul and wolf add to their richness. Handsomely lined.

At 125.00

Each of the coats in this collection looks as though it had emerged from a Paris box marked "Rue de la Paix"—which is not surprising, since it was inspired by a costly Paris original. Marvella, lustrosa, panvelaine, arabella, velvete are used to develop them, assisted by huge collars and cuffs of taupe wolf, beaver, rock and gray squirrel and kit fox. Many have deep armholes and double cape effects of material and fur, besides. Silk or crepe lined.
